ICTS Consult partners with Orpheus Cyber

London, 13 December 2018

ICTS Consult is pleased to announce a new strategic partnership with Orpheus Cyber Ltd, adding to its portfolio of services.

Orpheus is a specialist cyber security company and a highly accredited provider of cyber threat intelligence services – for example by both the UK’s Financial Conduct Authority (FCA) and the Bank of England. Orpheus delivers predictive and actionable understanding that enables organisations to anticipate, prepare for and respond to the wide range of cyber threats they face.

“We are delighted to be expanding our cyber security service offering with Orpheus Cyber, an established leader in the market.

The landscape of cyber security is constantly changing and poses a real-time threat to organisations of all sizes, and to the greater economy. Cyber security is a key focus for us at ICTS Consult, and through our partnership with Orpheus, we look forward to supporting and guiding our clients through both current and future challenges,” commented Ashley Fernandes, Managing Partner, ICTS Consult.

Oliver Church, CEO, Orpheus Cyber commented, “All too often, organisations neglect basic risk management principles when considering their cyber security. Regulators are now demanding that companies adopt a risk-based approach, which means having a strategy that starts with understanding your threats and a plan to combat them.

We are excited to be partnering with ICTS Consult to combine our expertise and provide best-in-class services that ensure organisations adopt a risk-based approach that not only meet requirements but provide enhanced security.”

End.
